

panda

CROSSINGS

OPERATION AND SIGNALS

OPERATION BY PEDESTRIANS

Pedestrians first of all press either button (there are two) which immediately lights up a WAIT sign just above the button. After an interval the WAIT sign will go out and a sign reading CROSS will appear on the opposite side of the crossing. All traffic must stop. Pedestrians then have right of way. Soon the CROSS sign will begin to flash. During this period drivers must give way to pedestrians, but may pass if no one is on the crossing. When flashing becomes faster it means the CROSS sign is about to go out and drivers will have right of way.

WHEN NO SIGNALS ARE SHOWING, ROAD TRAFFIC HAS PRIORITY

SIGNALS TO PEDESTRIANS

1

PEDESTRIANS SHOULD NOT CROSS UNTIL CROSS SIGNAL APPEARS.

2

WHEN CROSS SIGNAL APPEARS — AS ILLUSTRATED — PEDESTRIANS SHOULD CROSS.

3

CROSS SIGNAL STARTS TO FLASH. PEDESTRIANS STILL HAVE RIGHT OF WAY BUT SHOULD CROSS WITH CARE. THE CROSS SIGNAL WILL FLASH FASTER JUST BEFORE GOING OUT.

SIGNALS TO DRIVERS

PULSATING AMBER LIGHT; TRAFFIC MUST STOP, UNLESS UNSAFE TO DO SO.

1

RED PULSATING STOP LIGHT; ALL TRAFFIC MUST STOP, GIVING RIGHT OF WAY TO PEDESTRIANS.

2

FLASHING AMBER LIGHT GIVES RIGHT OF WAY TO PEDESTRIANS, BUT TRAFFIC IS ABLE TO PROCEED IF CROSSING IS CLEAR.

3

Note: A pulsating light varies in intensity but does not go out. A flashing light goes off and on.

Easily recognisable, the new traffic signal at PANDA CROSSINGS is always accompanied by triangular shaped black and white markings across the road: those on Zebra crossings are rectangular. In addition, the post carries a yellow globe with black horizontal stripes. Two panels on the signal post each carry a push-button for pedestrians to press when they want to cross.

For details of the proper way to use these crossings please see the middle page of this leaflet.

This is a one-year experiment. These new crossings will replace Zebra crossings in Guildford and Lincoln, and one or two will be installed in 22 other places in different parts of the country.